There is something humbling about nature. Even as the deep sea, or a towering mountain or even a complex rainforest forces humility upon you, nature manages to leave you with your ego intact. No one in their right mind can seriously contemplate being in 'competition', with anything so perfect and all-encompassing. In fact, I smile inwardly when I hear people talk about 'conquering' mountains. The mountain actually lets you climb it. If it was less 'benevolent' you would be dead.

On the other hand, if you respect its power and tread lightly upon its earth, the Himalaya will protect you and deliver you the satisfaction of being cocooned in pure nature. Take my word for it. Almost anywhere you go, the traditional hospitality of the hilly people will ensure that you obtain a hot meal, a friendly welcome and a place to rest a tired body for the night. All you need to pack is humility, essential trust and low-key demands along with a good pair of walking boots and a sleeping bag.

These promise physical comfort at steep prices, but the cost paid by the environments in which such facilities are located is incalculable. Besides, the sanitized options available take most of the organic pleasure away from most destinations.

- b. Find a word of same meaning from above passage for each of the following words. (5)
Beneficial, Walk, Politeness, High, Think over
- c. Write the past participle form of 'connection'. (1)
